

NOTES FROM THE FIELD

Once Jesus taught that the Kingdom of Heaven was like a mustard seed that was planted and grew into an enormous plant. He also said it was like yeast that, when added to flour, makes the whole dough rise. His point was that the will of God at work in the world, the will to reach down to humanity, God's will to rescue us, begins the way a tiny seed begins or the way yeast first pushes outward on a ball of dough.

The force of a seed to push up through a layer of dirt is tiny, but it's enough. The same is true for the yeast. It's tiny, but enough. And so as we make our way through Lent, we, too are carried along by a force that is enough to move the church through the wilderness of Lent into the bright glory of Easter day.

It's a steady force that isn't flashy or attention-getting. It's a force that keeps the church moving forward.

And it's not only the church that is on the move, so it creation. For latitudes above the equator, the church begins its Lenten way in the dark, cold days of winter. The mornings are cold and the earth is dormant.

At our own particular latitude, there is still snow and ice, grey skies and clouds during Lent. The earth is in a winter sleep while its mighty axis tilts away from the sun's energy. The afternoon shadows point in a different direction than they will point in six months. But slowly and with great force the earth is moving toward warmer days and springtime is on its way.

The Season of Lent is a journey from winter to spring, from wilderness to Easter triumph, from death to life. It is an unstoppable journey, and it has another facet to it...

It is an inward journey. Lent is a time to sift through all the stuff and activities and busyness of life. It's about ordering our to-do lists, and discovering (or rediscovering) that only one thing is truly first for an abundant, fulfilling life: the faith to trust and follow Jesus Christ into the world and share his love.

That's a collective activity, and the group God has called together for this work is the church. Here's the Book of Order wording on that great work we are called to do: In Christ, the church participates in God's mission for the transformation of creation and humanity by proclaiming to all people the good news of God's love, offering to all people the grace of God at font and table, and calling all people to discipleship in Christ.

It is good to share in this work in our corner of creation. The Session is planning a couple of projects for the spring that will help us reach out to our neighbors in the Green Spring community. (More about this will follow soon.) I am excited about that because it means we might meet some new folks in our own community. But first, we need to be grounded in the triumphant news of Easter.

That is at the core of our faith and everything hinges on the triumph of Easter day. The resurrection – the empty tomb – is the sign that what we are about as a church is more than simply remind ourselves of an ancient history.

And so we look to a world in need and get to work. Together in Christ, Jon.

Spring Cleaning!
 March 23
 9:00 - 12:00noon
 Come and help out!

From the Choir Director, Kevin Flanagan

In just a few weeks we will be celebrating Holy Week and special music is planned for these holy days in the church year.

On Palm Sunday (March 24), the children of the congregation will be singing some special music. Our worship will also be enhanced by a beautiful duet by Erin Evans and Terry Major.

On Maundy Thursday (March 28), I will be a solo as part of the service that depicts the Last supper in song.

On Good Friday (March 29), we will once again be combining with the Old Glade Presbyterian Church in Glade Spring for a Good Friday Service of music and readings. The service will be held in Glade Spring this year. This is one of the most powerful services all year so make plans now to attend! Directions to Old Glade Church will appear in weekly bulletins.

On Easter Sunday (March 31), we are hopeful that the children of the congregation will be enriching our worship along with a guest trumpet player. During the serving of communion on this day, Teresa Halsey will sing a beautiful song and we will sing a couple of upbeat songs as a congregation that will enliven our Easter celebration. The choir will conclude our Easter service with the singing of Handel's Hallelujah Chorus.
